Fred,
 If there were any more like you, there would happen. Miss O'Reilly could say "I don't train physically because they come already trained." 1. Marshall's swimming team wouldn't lose at all
 2. The whole world be better off
 3. Best of luck always in the

Foreword

Gulliver made a record of his travels among strange worlds in which he encountered men who towered above him like skyscrapers, and horses who were highly cultured. Our world, at Marshall, is strange and exciting, too. We are "Projectors", as busy as the Lilliputian nation, scurrying from class to class and then to after-school activities. To avoid appearing like Yahoos, we are developing the sense of the noble Houyhnhnms. We are gaining knowledge and experience to guide our flying islands. On the following pages is the record of our travels throughout the year. Its principal design, like Gulliver's, is "... to inform, and not to amuse". If, however, it is as successful as Gulliver's Travels, it will do both.

Dedication

We dedicate the 1955 John Quill
To the English department, Whose instructors fulfill Guilliver's ideal, That teaching should be "Without passion, prejudice, or ill-will . . .
To the noblest end . . .
To inform and instruct mankind,
Without any view towards profit or praise."

ELMER W. SNYDER
PRINCIPAL

To His Loving Subjects

Why voyage to Lilliput, Brobdingnag, or the country of the Houyhnhnms, when we have Johnmarshall-land, almost as mysterious, and always filled with marvelous adventure? The world's work is done in large measure by the little people in our universe. Take away the multitude of pygmies and this world, this school, would become a dreary place. Team play would have no part in our existence and the enthusiasm created by the many would be absent.

When you seniors leaf through this book, and note the record of your years in Marshall-land, you should feel a pride and youthful vigor akin to the man-mountain Gulliver among the Lilliputians.

But when you return to the outside world from Marshall-land and become swallowed up by the gigantic inhabitants of Brobdingnag, you should gain reassurance by reading again this chronicle of your high school days.

Baseball

Baseball is a game that has been played for centuries. It is a game of strategy and skill. The game is played on a diamond-shaped field. The players are divided into two teams. One team is the batting team and the other is the fielding team. The batting team tries to score runs by hitting the ball and running the bases. The fielding team tries to prevent the batting team from scoring runs by catching the ball and tagging the runners out. The game is played in innings. Each inning is divided into two halves. In the first half, the batting team bats and in the second half, the fielding team bats. The game ends when the batting team has scored more runs than the fielding team or when the fielding team has won the game.

Fried.

I guess you found this came if you hadn't you wouldn't be reading it. I don't know if I should bother writing you more - for I am sure you will find it. But I guess for old times sake I will. Anyhow, I won't write about the good times we've had for I couldn't get them on this page or even in this book. To make a long story longer. I will say that you ~~and~~ we are going to have to keep in touch next year. You are going to have to keep me informed on what is going on and who is doing what. To be sincere for a change I hope that best of everything is yours always. Be good and stay happy..... if you can't.... well, anyhow, stay happy. Best wishes always your Buddy
Bill Butler

Ted,
 One of the best guys I know. you'll always be tops with me.
 Hope we'll always be friends
 Good luck
 Don Hayfale
